WASHINGTON, Murch 25. Baron De Agular De Audrada, Brazilian Minister in Washington, on a special mission, was stricken with apoplexy and paralysis, last night, and lies at his room in Arlington Hotel, in a critical condition.

Cleshing Trade of New York.

AkewYork, March 25. The proposed lockout of the clotning cutters by the Manufacturers' Association goes into effect to-day. At 3 o'clock this afternoon 500 cutters will be paid off by the various firms involved in the tockout. There will lea meeting of the trades council of garment workers to night to discuss the advisability of requesting the executive board to call out the trade tallors, numbering 10,000 men on Monday. Secretary White said this morning that in the event of the manufacturers geting the best of the strike with the aid of the Knights of Labor, the garment workers would, with the aid of 10,000 tallors, paralyze the Labor, the garment workers would, with the aid of 10,000 tailors, paralyze the whole clothing trade of this city and cati out the balance of the 2,000 cutters now working for firms in the Manufacturers' Association.

"It was on the night of July 31, 1863, that Sam Sharpley and I joined hands in a new undertaking, the reformation of the variety entertainment. Then we, opened at No. 20 Bowery "Tony Pastor's Opera House," on the site of what is now another that the Control of the site of what is now another that the Control of the site of the Samuel and the site of the Samuel and the site of other theatre. After a year Sam retired, and the rest of my venture is briefly told. "I remained ten years in the Bower and then went to Nos. 585 and 587 Broadand then went to Nos. 885 and 887 Broad-way, and, then removed to Fourteenth street. I believe that the Vandeville Cab is the dreet outgrowth of my theatre, and I know that many estimable actors and actresses might not be where they are to-day but for their chance on my stage and the inspiration of its patrons' spilause.

they are to-day but for their chance on my stage and the inspiration of its patrons' spplanes.

"About myself there is but little new to say. My father was a musician in the orchestratof the old Park Theatre, and probably from this circumstance I conceived the idea of 'strutting upon the mimic stage.'

"My presents did not like this, but finally I obtained employment in Barnum's Museum, then at the corner of Broadway and Ann street. Then Colonel A. Mans sugged one as no end man for his minatrel troupe. Then I had more experience, being successively cing-master, clown and schor, with Levi P. North's circus. In 1611 had turned back to variety theatres and was back in New York when the war began."

16 It has turned each to variety theatres and was back in New York when the war began."

Tony also told a story of how one night when he saw the crowd surging into No. 444 Broadway, the thought struck him to sing the "Star Spangled Banner." It was the day that Fore Sumter had been fired upon, and the stirring strains, in which both audience and actors joined, aroused everybody to a high litted of enthusiasm. "It was on Tuesday evening," he added, "that I began the twenty-ninth year of my management, and no man can say that a part at least of my aim in life has not been attained. I have industriously labored to make the variety show business successful, without the aid of such meretrolous influences as hobacco and sliquor, and the mere sistement of the fact that my theatre was never more prosperous than at present is a sunfident answer, and one quite satisfactory to me."
